Dear and esteemed members of the committee as well as esteemed members of the society accept my gratitude for your warmth during my presence at our meetings.

Until now I felt like a teenager, but now at 91 and a half I feel that age is catching up with me. Therefore, I decided to say a few words of gratitude to the body of people who work very hard to organize the tertulias. Personally, I have enjoyed the talks of the informed speakers who have shed their views on the culture and customs of the Latin Americans.

Certainly the lives and struggle of Pablo Neruda and Garcia Marquez are not only educational, but also instructive, showing the struggle of the people for justice. My personal writers – heroes are Cervantes (immortal) who was kidnapped. His captors cut off one of his arms to receive ransom. The community collected the money to set him free. The second one is Garcia Lorca who was thrown into prison by Franco because he was different. His remains have not been returned to the family until now.

The talks were followed by food served in a particular Latin American country. Then the rhythm of the session changed by the presence of professional dancers and singers. Every tertulia was a success !!! When everybody left, the committee received their reward by having to clean up the place. I bow my head to them.

Thank You with a capital T.

Anna Strzelecki
